RUSNÁK CONTINUES TO SHINE

In his fourth season with the club, midfielder Albert Rusnák is continuing to put up strong numbers in the attack. His game-winning goal against Dallas on May 24 gave him 10 goal contributions on the year (7G/3A). Since joining Seattle, the Slovakian has tallied 25 goals and 25 assists, becoming the second player in MLS history to record 25 goals and 25 assists with multiple clubs in regular season play. Prior to joining Seattle, Rusnák recorded 41 goals and 39 assists for Real Salt Lake from 2017-2021. Steve Ralston also accomplished this feat, doing so with the Tampa Bay Mutiny and New England Revolution.

A major quality of Rusnák play has been delivering in clutch moments for Seattle. The Slovakian international has recorded 14 game-winning goals in the regular-season and playoffs since joining the team, tied for second with Cristian Roldan among active Sounders FC players. Including his goal against Dallas, Rusnák has recorded two game-winning strikes this season.

SOUNDERS FC AND REIGN FC EXPAND PARTNERSHIP WITH IHEARTMEDIA SEATTLE

Seattle Sounders FC and Seattle Reign FC announced on May 15 an expanded and dynamic multi-year partnership with iHeartMedia Seattle, deepening their longstanding collaboration to provide premier audio coverage for soccer fans across the Pacific Northwest. The new agreement marks a significant leap forward in Seattle soccer storytelling, delivering unmatched radio and digital streaming audio experiences for both clubs through iHeartMedia Seattle's market-leading platforms.

This partnership not only extends iHeartMedia Seattle's commitment as the Flagship Audio Home of Sounders FC, but also formally integrates Reign FC into iHeartMedia Seattle's broadcast family – marking a milestone in unified audio coverage for Seattle's topflight men's and women's professional soccer teams.

The agreement brings both Reign FC and Sounders FC onto the same audio broadcast platform for the first time, stretching across iHeartMedia Seattle's complete complement of affiliates – from Sports Radio 93.3 KJR FM to 950 KJR AM and on the iHeartRadio app.

iHeartMedia Seattle is poised to bring Pacific Northwest soccer fans wall-to-wall coverage of the teams they love in the years ahead, spearheaded by industry-leading in-match coverage.

For Sounders FC, all MLS matches – including the MLS Cup Playoffs – are set for air on Sports Radio 93.3 KJR FM, 950 KJR AM or on the iHeartRadio app. Each broadcast includes full pre and post-match shows, alongside live play-by-play throughout the MLS season.

For Reign FC, the new partnership with iHeartMedia Seattle provides the club a terrestrial radio and streaming audio platform for the first time in team history. This season, six matches will air on 950 KJR AM or via the iHeartRadio app, including a pre-match show and full in-match coverage. In subsequent seasons, 10 NWSL matches will be carried across iHeartMedia Seattle's platforms.

For fans of both clubs, leading Sports Radio KJR talent like Dave "Softy" Mahler, Dick Fain and Jackson Felts are set to be onsite at Lumen Field for select matches of both clubs, conducting live remotes, interacting with fans and appearing on the teams' pre-match shows, bringing fan-favorite voices directly to the Seattle soccer community.

Beyond in-match coverage throughout the MLS and NWSL seasons, iHeartMedia Seattle is invested in bringing Sounders and Reign fans closer to their teams through dedicated shoulder programming, weekly segments, interviews and cross-platform promotions. As Seattle prepares to host both the FIFA Club World Cup this summer and the FIFA World Cup next year, iHeartMedia Seattle is ramping-up its coverage, aligning Seattle's hometown teams with international soccer's biggest stages.

Sounders Weekly returns for its ninth season in 2025. The magazine-style weekly show on 93.3 KJR FM is hosted by Jackson Felts, offering insider updates, player interviews and analysis from around the soccer world every Wednesday throughout the season at 7:00 p.m. PT.

New in 2025, Sounders Weekly expands to 90 minutes to include a dedicated 30-minute Reign FC spotlight, featuring the club's players, coaches and top storylines.

In addition, Sounders FC Head Coach Brian Schmetzer's weekly segment on Dave "Softy" Mahler and Dick Fain's show continues every Tuesday at 5:45 p.m. PT throughout the MLS season, while fans of both teams can expect regular player and coach interviews across KJR's programming throughout the MLS and NWSL seasons. SOUNDERS FC WEEKLY NOTES

SOUNDERS FC UNVEILS THE SALISH SEA KIT

Seattle Sounders FC this season “The Salish Sea Kit,” part of adidas’ Community Kit collection and the club’s new secondary kit for the 2025-2026 Major League Soccer seasons. Featuring cool green and blue tones evoking Pacific Northwestern waters and a unique pattern derived from Coast Salish weaving traditions in collaboration with indigenous artists representing the Puyallup, Muckleshoot and Suquamish Tribes, The Salish Sea Kit serves a call to protect what sustains us and to celebrate the connections that make us whole.

This one-of-a-kind kit also has purpose beyond the pitch. Sounders FC is committed to donating proceeds up to $50,000 from the first 30 days of The Salish Sea Kit’s sales to organizations dedicated to preserving the cultural heritage of tribal communities and protecting the Salish Sea’s remarkable ecosystem, including: The Burke Museum, Potlatch Fund, Puget Soundkeeper, Seattle Aquarium and RAVE Foundation.

These funds will be thoughtfully invested to support youth education and arts programs honoring the traditions of Washington State’s tribal communities, advance conservation efforts to restore the health of the Salish Sea and provide meaningful experiences for tribal youth, including educational field trips and opportunities to attend Sounders FC matches.

Through these initiatives, Sounders FC aims to honor the interconnectedness of the region’s people and environment, creating a legacy that uplifts communities and inspires stewardship of the Salish Sea.

Born at the water’s edge in 1974, Sounders FC has been inextricably connected to the Puget Sound from the club’s earliest days. But the waters of the Sound – part of the greater Salish Sea – have a history far deeper and vaster, stretching back through the generations to time immemorial. The Salish Sea flows both literally through its waters and figuratively through its spirit, sustaining life and building strong communities. Sounders FC’s Salish Sea Kit honors water as a life force and a vessel for rich cultural traditions.

The jersey’s striking geometric pattern suggests a sense of dimensionality and flow, inspired by twilling and twining, two traditional Southern Coast Salish weaving techniques. These techniques, passed down through generations, pay respect to the resilience, connection and creativity that define the cultural fabric of the region.

The design draws directly from the artistry of three distinguished indigenous Pacific Northwestern artists Connie McCloud, Gail White Eagle and Danielle Morsette.

Coast Salish artist Louie Gong (Nooksack Tribe) played an instrumental role in bringing this group of collaborators together, recommending that the jersey’s story be told through the work of these three talented women who have now brought their weaving traditions to life on a global stage, constructing The Salish Sea Kit as an authentic and novel testament to Coast Salish tradition.

The phrase “Water Is Sacred” appears on the bottom left corner of each jersey front, proudly printed in both English and Southern Lushootseed, the traditional language of the Puyallup, Muckleshoot, Suquamish and neighboring Coast Salish tribes. This powerful statement underscores the deep cultural and spiritual connection to the Salish Sea and serves as a reminder of the shared responsibility to protect it.

The neck hit features an original design that combines a wave of water, the tail of an orca and a flowing “S” that represents both the Seattle Sounders and the Salish Sea. Anchored by the club’s birth year, 1974, this motif reflects a commitment to stewardship that spans generations – connecting the past, present and future in the fight to preserve our environment.

The right jersey sleeve showcases the logo of the Puyallup Tribe, an original steward of the land throughout what is now known as the Puget Sound. The tribe and its Emerald Queen Casino have partnered with Sounders FC since 2021.
